Arrest 5 At Depot

TOBYHANNA — Five men charged with conspiracy to steal government property from the U. S. Army Signal Corps Depot here were arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation yesterday.

Fred A. Frohbose, special agent in charge of the Philadelphia FBI office, identified them as Charles Henry Beck, 56, of 72 River St., Carbondale; Lawrence J. Tenneriello, 37, of 137 Brown St., Wilkes-Barre; Howell T. Whiting, 64, of 40 Montevision Rd., Mount Pocono; Francis B. Widdoss, 53, Mount Pocono, Star Route, and Harry Zinski, Jr., 29, of 913 Lincoln Ave., Blakely.

At a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Harry A. Kolb in Scranton yesterday afternoon, all but Widdoss posted $5,000 bail on the charge. Widdoss is confined to Lackawanna County Jail pending bail.

They are charged with conspiring to steal U. S. Army property "valued in excess of $100" from the depot. The exact value of the loot was not disclosed.

The FBI said the men conspired to take government property from a warehouse at the depot by placing it in an empty box car which had previously been released to be removed from the depot and which was placed in a position outside the depot where they could obtain the property.

All but Widdoss were civilian government employees of the depot. Widdoss is a Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad employee and also a justice of the peace at Swiftwater. Conviction on the charge could result in a $10,000 fine and/or five years imprisonment.

Cuba Seizes Rubber Plants Of Three U.S. Companies

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's regime seized Cuban plants of three big U.S. rubber companies Thursday in a new anti-American economic offensive that may reach a peak at a mammoth people's rally Friday.

In a briefing speech, Raul Castro, Prime Minister Castro's younger brother, hinted that all 600 U.S. businesses in Cuba that escaped nationalization may be taken over. There was speculation Fidel Castro would announce such action at the rally.

Following the familiar pattern of seizure, armed militiamen moved in on the U.S. Rubber, Goodyear and Firestone plants after workers accused the companies of trying to cut production to sabotage Castro's revolution, the U.S. Embassy reported.

Company spokesmen, after executives of the firms were ordered to get out of the plants, denied there had been any slowdown of production.

The embassy said it was informed a fourth company, Goodrich, escaped because 80 per cent of its stock is held by a Mexican subsidiary of the American company.

The four companies normally meet all of Cuba's requirements for tires and other rubber goods through manufacturers here or by imports. There were reports the rubber companies will retaliate by halting heavy purchases of rayon and nylon cord from Cuba.

Court Rejects Delay Pleas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Thursday rejected pleas for delay in public school desegregation in Houston, Tex. and New Orleans, La.

At the same time the court refused to hold up effectiveness of a lower court order requiring faster integration of Delaware's public schools.

Smith Convicted Of Rape-Slaying

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A jury convicted Elmo Smith of first degree murder in the rape-slaying of Maryann Mitchell Thursday, but put off until Friday its decision on a life sentence or death in the electric chair.

The 16-year-old Philadelphia schoolgirl was abducted from a street corner last Dec. 28. Her mutilated body was found two days later in a gully in White Marsh Township, in Montgomery County, just outside Philadelphia.

The verdict was reached by the Adams County jury of nine men and three women after 90 minutes of deliberation.

The trial then went into testimony by expert witnesses to guide it in the somber decision on what shall be Smith's eventual fate.

President Judge W. C. Sheeley recessed the trial shortly after 5 p.m.

Tears streamed down the cheeks of the 39-year-old Bridgeport handyman, after the verdict.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Mitchell, parents of the slain girl, said through their attorney they "are satisfied with the verdict and feel it is justified."

Krush To Head Reds At U. N.

By The Associated Press
Nikita Khrushchev, who baffled the Big Four talks at Paris in mid-May, now may bring about a September summit session along the New York's East River.

The Soviet Union's traveling Premier made known Thursday night that he will head the Soviet delegation to the U.N. General Assembly opening Sept. 20.

Kremlin allies—except for the non-U.N. Red China—quickly got in line with the announcement that they will send their heads of government to the meeting. Khrushchev's action could bring similar, although perhaps reluctant, decisions from the heads of the big Western powers to attend.

Eisenhower To Reply
Khrushchev weeks ago said he thought government chiefs should get together at the U.N. session in New York to talk disarmament. Western reaction to that suggestion was cool, but the word that Khrushchev definitely will be on hand may bring some changes.

The White House declined comment on Khrushchev's plans, referring newsmen to President Eisenhower's earlier statements. The President said last month he would not rule out an Assembly appearance if he thought it necessary.

Opinion in Washington held it almost certain that Eisenhower would make a major reply to Khrushchev in the United Nations. This was reported to be the initial administration strategy to cope with what was viewed as a bold move by the Soviet leader to press the Soviet's anti-Western offensive later this month from a forum inside the United States.

Eisenhower was understood to have no present plans for any private meeting with Khrushchev—either in New York or in Washington.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said several weeks ago he had no intention of going to U.N. headquarters for the Assembly, but a British official said Khrushchev's definite announcement meant a new situation had arisen.

"The Prime Minister certainly will look at the situation again," the official said.

De Gaulle, Perhaps
There was no immediate comment from Paris, but the possibility was raised that President Charles de Gaulle might consider going along if the other big Western leaders attend.

Khrushchev attended the opening of the General Assembly in New York last fall and presented a Soviet plan for disarmament that never got anywhere in negotiations later carried out in Geneva.

In addition to most of the top men in the Communist world, the General Assembly session may draw the attendance of another leader who has come in for his share of attention from both East and West. Reports had circulated in Havana that Prime Minister Fidel Castro would attend if Khrushchev did.

START OF SEARCH—State Police Trooper Charles Covage (left), prepares to give Prince, a police bloodhound, scent from clothing worn by Dennis O'Connor, 76, of Philadelphia, before his disappearance Tuesday from Camp William Penn. Search Resumes Today For Missing Man, 76

THE SEARCH for 76-year-old Dennis O'Connor, of Philadelphia, missing from Camp William Penn since Tuesday noon, will be resumed at 9 a. m. today by camp authorities and State Police.

A young bloodhound brought here from the State Police Academy at Hershey will lead the search. The dog was used for several hours yesterday afternoon and, while it did not turn up anything positive, its handlers said it showed some reaction in an area north of the camp.

Troopers Robert H. Borkert and Charles Covage, the handlers, said the bloodhound will be taken to the same spot at the beginning of today's search to determine whether the scent it picked up matches that on the coat and hat O'Connor left behind when he disappeared three days ago.

Working to the dog's disadvantage are several factors, police and camp officials said. Wednesday's hard rain and the time lapse since the Philadelphia man's disappearance could destroy the tell-tale scents he had left. Also, the fact that O'Connor had spent a week at the camp means that any scent picked up by the dog might not be linked to the disappearance.

Assisting in yesterday's search were Paul Keebler, director of the camp for the last seven years; Albert Battles, supervisor of the Riverview Home for the Aged in Philadelphia, where O'Connor was a guest, and State Police Troopers Alex Kearn of Stroudsburg and James Colbert of Milford.

Spent Week At Camp

O'Connor was one of a group of 165 residents of Riverview Home who had spent a week's encampment at William Penn Camp near Marshalls Creek. In the group were 90 men and 65 women. Both the home and the camp are owned and operated by the City of Philadelphia.

When the buses were being loaded Tuesday noon for the return trip to Philadelphia, O'Connor excused himself for a moment and said he was going to a toilet located on the grounds.

After waiting a reasonable time for O'Connor to re-appear, a member of the camp staff made a fruitless search for the elderly man and then reported back to Battles and Keebler.

They immediately launched a widespread hunt in all the cabins and other buildings on the 550-acre camp property, patrolled roads leading out of the area and combed the surrounding woods.

When they failed to find O'Connor, aides were sent to Marshalls Creek, Anasimink, Canadensis and the Stroudsburgs. Railroad stations and bus terminals, taprooms and other places were covered. No trace of the missing man was found anywhere.

Search In Rain
On Wednesday, despite the rain that fell throughout most of the day, a "fine-tooth search" was made within a two-mile radius of the camp. Taking part were the camp staff, Game Protector John Doehling, State Police and the caretaker, Dilvan Miller Bush, who is also a deputy game protector.

Because of the poor visibility, a proposal to fly over the heavily wooded area in a helicopter was abandoned.

Yesterday, the search was renewed with 12 members of the Tobyhanna Signal Depot Rescue Team under Lt. James Fitzpatrick augmenting the party.

Bernie Jaggers searched the Miller Swamp area, and other volunteers joined the hunt. A. E. Bush, of Marshalls Creek, and Raymond Snyder spotted a turkey buzzard flying over a wooded spot about a half mile south of the camp about noon yesterday. The Depot Rescue Team was sent to the scene, but found nothing.

The 12-foot-deep lake on the camp property which had been dragged without results on Tuesday was being drained late yesterday. It will be down to about 18 inches today permitting a close inspection of the bottom.

In Pike County

The camp is located in the extreme southwest corner of Pike County where it juts into Monroe County. Part of the camp's grounds and situated in Monroe County about nine miles north of Marshalls Creek.

For many years the camp was known as Girard Camp. In 1962,

Long Strike Against PRR In Prospect

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The sprawling Pennsylvania Railroad, America's biggest, lay idle Thursday for the first time in its 114-year history. It was brought to a standstill by a strike by 20,000 nonoperating employees.

Management and labor negotiators, prodded by a federal mediator, met separately but without noticeable haste in their quest for settlement of a work rule-job security dispute that started in 1957.

Both sides braced for a possible long bargaining fight. Statements they issued were unyielding.

Meanwhile, commuters and shippers cast about for other means of service in the 13 states and the District of Columbia where the Pennsy operates 10,000 miles of track among industrial and agricultural centers.

Fears of a stiff blow to the nation's economy were allayed for the time being.

So far the pinch has been slight. Warned in advance, most firms stockpiled materials and supplies. Industry had hastened delivery of finished items to market.

The Defense Department in Washington said the strike would have "no major impact upon military traffic or shipments."

A long strike could create problems in moving out farm goods. Trucks are being pressed into service throughout the affected regions. Goods are rerouted to other rail lines.

Buses, autos, planes and other railroads are carrying the 136,000 passengers who normally ride the Pennsy to and from work or shopping each day.

Normally the Pennsy operates 72 passenger trains daily, and nearly 850 freight. Now, not a wheel is turning. Some 200,000 freight cars, 5,000 passenger and 2,000 engines stand ghost-like in the yards.

About all that's moving around Pennsy property are the picketing members of the two unions: The Transport Workers, with 15,000 strikers, and the System Federation, 5,000.

Hassle Engages Senate Right Up To Adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bickering, bone-weary Congress adjourned its unproductive post-convention session Thursday with the Senate locked in controversy almost to the very end.

The House shut up shop at 6:52 p.m., officially ending the post-convention session of the 86th Congress.

The Senate stayed around for another five hours, finally calling it quits at 11:51 p.m.—just 9 minutes before a midnight deadline stipulated in an adjournment resolution adopted earlier.

It talked some more and disposed of some business not requiring House concurrence.

The Senate's departure was delayed when it became embroiled in a hassle over a proposal to provide $150,000 more for a watchdog subcommittee to check on whether radio and TV stations give fair treatment in political broadcasts this campaign year.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and some Southerners fought the proposal.

Things ground to a halt when opponents of the watchdog subcommittee's radio-TV inquiry demanded a quorum call and it was found that a majority wasn't present.

A majority finally was rounded up after more than three hours.

Recalls Resolution
Glancing at the clock, Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.), chairman of the watchdog subcommittee, conceded there wasn't time for a vote, so he withdrew the resolution asking for the $150,000.

In the remaining few minutes, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas delivered his traditional windup speech which had particular significance this year because he is his party's vice-presidential nominee.

With the end of the session died a bill that would have armed Eisenhower with powers he sought to cut or erase a special 32,000-ton sugar quota assigned to the Dominican Republic, now an outcast nation in the Western hemisphere.

350 Enter Exhibits In Fair

NEWFOUNDLAND — The Greene-Dreher-Sterling Fair moved into its second day of operation yesterday as hundreds of people crowded into this area to watch the judging of events of nine divisions.

More than 350 entrants vied for awards in the 44th running of the fair which takes in Wayne, Pike and Monroe territories.

The fair continues today and will close out tomorrow with the honoring of the "oldest citizens" and a night of entertainment. Today's feature will be the show's first horse show while midget car races will headline the fair tomorrow.

Last night Stoney Cooper and Wilma Lee entertained a turnaway crowd of close to 2,000 people with the theme of the "Grand Ole Opry."

Known as the Clinch Mountain Clan, Cooper, Miss Lee and their sidekick; drew rounds and rounds of applause for their music which is known throughout the United States.

Encores were made many times by the musical group which works out of Nashville, Tenn., via Wheeling, W. Va.

Yesterday poultry, livestock, pastries, model and toy building, arts and crafts, flowers, jams and jellies, etc. exhibits occupied the minds and eyes of the onlookers.

Two Main Halls
Exhibits were on display in the two main fair buildings and on the grounds of the fair which is situated in rear of Southern Wayne Joint School.

Supervising the events were Carroll Fetherman, president, and Robert Sapa, secretary of the fair association.

While Wednesday's rainfall caused some problems, Staph, a Newfoundland resident, reported that the night's turnout was far beyond expectations, considering the poor elements of the afternoon.

The fairground was adorned with commercial exhibits, showing all types of farm machinery and implements used in the working of land.

One of the main attractions of the day was the showing of cattle to a packed grandstand. Exhibitors walked around their "wares" many lines before the judges came to their final decisions.

Judges Listed
Judges for the various exhibits were Paul Anderson, livestock; Joseph Parks, farm crops; Harry Blake, poultry; Miss Arlene Beardsley, junior; Miss Mary Hall, needlework; Mrs. Betty Strutt, pastry; Mrs. Anne Wood, horticulture; Mrs. Margaret Samson, canned goods; and Mrs. Martha Chapman, jelly and preserves.

Something New

Special School In Bangor Ready

BANGOR—Something new in schools, particularly in this area of Pennsylvania will be opened next week as children of the Bangor Area Joint School System, under the Northampton County School Board answer the bell for its beginning sessions of the 1960-61 school term.

The new school, The Robert F. Schaeffer Memorial Building, located on South Fourth Street and constructed with private means by Mr. and Mrs. Marvin DePamphilis of South Third Street has been built to educate the children needing special help, education-wise. The building contains eight classrooms especially designed and equipped to help this type of educational program and is a concrete block and frame construction meeting all the new safety features required by the State Department.

Named in honor of a former civic-minded citizen, the late Robert F. Schaeffer, father of Mrs. DePamphilis, the building has been erected as a memorial in his honor. Mr. Schaeffer who died in the past year, was a highly respected citizen having served as Bangor postmaster, as a member of the Bangor Borough Council and as a member of the Bangor Board of School Directors. He participated in many civic programs in his years of active association with the community and the new school will attest to his interest and spirit in giving aid to the many who needed special consideration.

Split Level

The building is a 90 by 35 construction, built on a split level pattern. In addition to the 8 classrooms it will contain a large home economics room that may be used as a cafeteria; a large all purpose room 48 to 20 feet that will serve as a school auditorium, shop and activity room with complete toilet facilities.

Each class room will have its own drinking fountain and wash basin in the room and all walls between classrooms have been sound proofed.

A rest room with complete facilities for any children becoming ill has been located on the first floor, while the school office has also been placed on this floor. The entrances to the school have been set with ramps to care for any children that will need special transportation. Boy and girl lavatories have been placed at the opposite ends of the main floor areas.

Each classroom is painted in pastel colors for easy eye instruction while classroom floor covering is varied, in color and pattern. The halls of the building have mahogany paneling while the offices and rest rooms have been finished in knotty pine.

Double Glass

All windows have double glass and the building will be heated by an oil fired furnace, the capacity of which could care for an additional five classrooms.

Claude Beck will act as the head teacher and the school is expected to have more than 100 pupils on opening day. Students attending the school under the county program will come from former classes at Portland, the Trinity Lutheran Church in Bangor; Pen Argyl; the Columbus School in Roseto and Washington Township.

County officials have been high in their praise during recent inspections of the building. Mr. DePamphilis has reported. The school will open on Sept. 8 for classes and will hold an open house for the general public on Sunday, Sept. 11 from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

TRACTOR DRIVERS—Barry Schaffer (standing) congratulates Clarke Bartholomew on winning the tractor driving contest at the West End Fair yesterday. Schaffer placed second. Larry Altemose and John Hinton placed third and fourth respectively. Bartholomew's score was low at 35 points to win the contest. Depot Rescue Squad Unique LOOKING sharp in combat garb and bright red berets, Tobyhanna Signal Depot's Rescue Squad excited lots of comment during a recent Honesdale, parade.

A reporter called later and asked, "What do you have up there now — French troops?"

The distinctive head gear was the squad's own idea. It was adopted this year, although the group itself has been in existence since 1958.

Any impression the red berets give that the Rescue Squad could only find their way around a French cafe is strictly erroneous! On all missions to locate lost hunters and berry pickers, the squad has always been successful.

Only once did they search in vain. That was two winters ago when a mentally ill woman, staying at an area resort, wandered away during a howling blizzard. Along with State police, bloodhounds and civilian volunteers, the men searched the woods and roads for days. The woman's body was found next spring when the snow began to melt.

To keep themselves tuned up, the group goes on a 20-mile hike at least once a month. Last time out they crossed over the top of the Poconos from Wind Gap to Water Gap.

In Army Training Tests at the Depot, the squad plays "aggressor" to "defending" forces, and performs this same service for Reservists assigned here.

First Lt. Mel Chapman heads the group of 14 men, most of whom are former infantrymen.

paratroopers or Marines. Sgt. Robert Holloway, non-commissioned officer in charge, was a paratrooper for many years until injured on a practice jump in Japan.

This summer the group is teaching survival training to Boy Scouts at nearby Camp Resica. They have also demonstrated survival techniques to volunteer fire companies in the area.

Fully equipped with walkie-talkies, helmet radios, first aid a 'mountain climbing gear, the squad is ready on short notice to aid the State Police in any search for missing persons.

Their happiest moment came last summer when they located Bobby Lynott, the 16-year-old cerebral palsy victim lost for three days in woods near Gouldsboro.

Two of the rescuers became celebrities on TV that night.

But these are not glory-seeking men. "They're in the squad," Lt. Chapman says, "because they like the work and enjoy helping people. A finer group of soldiers would be hard to find."

Another sad outing occurred following the crash of a Navy plane near Delaware Water Gap. The squad located the wreckage after a tortuous climb up a steep mountain. Both pilot and passenger were dead.

A happier outcome of a long search is also one of the most puzzling the squad has ever been on.

Come Upon Man

A hunter from New Jersey was reported lost in thick woods near Pocono Pines. Starting from where the man had parked his car, the Rescue Squad covered an area of several miles without success. For three days and nights the search continued. Exhausted and ready to call it quits for a while, the squad came upon their man. He was standing next to his car, looking rested and clean shaven.

To repeated queries as to where he had been for the past three days, the man gave only vague replies.

One searcher commented, "There are a lot of bars in Pocono Pines."

That experience didn't discourage the men, all of whom

Hurting Ourselves

It isn't popular to comment adversely on wages, for too many of us want more money. But the hour has drawn close when American workmen must face the fact that paying higher and higher wages is neither the way to curb inflation nor sell our goods in tightly competitive world markets.

Conditions in the U.S. steel industry illustrate what can happen when we allow the costs of production—influenced largely by wages—to put our merchandise in poor price position.

For one thing, production itself falls off.

All major steel producing nations of the world, except the United States, made more of the metal in the first half of 1960 than in the like 1959 period.

A world-wide survey covering the first seven months of this year shows U.S. production was down five per cent. But Japan had a gain of 40 per cent; Italy, 30; the United Kingdom, 28; West Germany, 23; the Benelux countries (Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg), 18; France, 15; and the Soviet Republics, 9.

Secondly, we lose sales because our prices are higher.

We see the result of this price war everytime we look at a foreign-made automobile on our streets.

It carries over into government contracts, too. The Office of Civil Defense Mobilization has ruled that domestic producers can't get relief from foreign competition for national security reasons. Because of this ruling, foreign manufacturers have won about 40 per cent of the government's hydraulic turbine business in the last two fiscal years.

Here's a case where taxes paid by high-wage American workers are used to put them out of work.

Competition is hurting us. The results of it, however, should teach us that we can't have top wages and lowest retail prices.

Instead of making wages a political matter, we would be far wiser—and far better off in the end—if we left their determination to the marketplace.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Bipartisan Fund Raising

It is a rare person who, upon giving a large sum to political party, doesn't expect some return for it. This return may be in prestige, such as a seat at the head table, an honorary or actual public office, or, in some cases, a cash return through contracts.

Party workers put up their $25 or $100 for a seat at a dinner, and consider that the price they pay for their jobs, or plain party loyalty. But the garden variety of voter doesn't give large contributions, and doesn't expect much except that his party run a decent and efficient campaign.

It is too true that the average American, who talks such a good election campaign, does not support his party as well as he might. Often, too, he complains about the big contributors getting the favors. Appeals on a non-partisan basis, the buck-for-the-party-of-your-choice, seem often to fall on deaf ears.

The Democrats and Republicans of Washington, D.C., have come up with a new trick. They are going to conduct their war chest drives together. For several days next month party workers will sit together at tables at 15 busy street corners, soliciting funds for the local and national campaigns. This is probably one of the few places where "Operation Street Corner" could happen.

Most city organizations are too jealous of each other, and wouldn't want the opposition to know how little—or how much—they get to spend. Also they might fear the joint collections would show how the public feels about each party, in advance of election day.

When this campaign is over, there will be added discussion of the plan suggested by Theodore Roosevelt, that the Federal Government finance presidential elections. A better way would be to have the voters support the party of their choice. —Philadelphia Bulletin

George Sokolsky Says . . .

National Purpose

A phrase, national purpose, comes into being and it is immediately picked up until it grows aged and outworn. But today, everybody uses it.

What can be meant by national purpose? It is as though we were a monolithic state, a homogeneous people, with a single concept, let us say, of world conquest or conversely, of world peace. But truth to tell, we are not like that at all.

We are a very mixed people, of many origins, of diverse regional attitudes, of many ideas and purposes. The idea of a national purpose, of a national goal, of a national target is entirely novel to our people, although there is a very firm statement of a national philosophy, issued before we became a nation.

Vice President Nixon takes his theme for the national purpose from the Preamble of the Constitution and he states it to be:

"Form a more perfect union. Establish justice. Insure domestic tranquility. Provide for the common defense. Promote the general welfare. Secure the blessings of liberty for ourselves and posterity."

The first of these, "Form a more perfect union," is not transcendental. We fought the War Between the States to solve that problem by demonstrating that a state once it became part of the United States could not leave it.

During the Roosevelt Administration, some of the New Deal ers thought that states might just as well be abolished and the country divided into rational regions. Nothing came of that. As for the next four ideas, all governments hold to them more or less, even the most unsatisfactory dictatorships. However, there are many different views as to what is good for the people because nobody really is sure.

For instance, Harry Hopkins picked on the phrase, "Promote the general welfare" and tried to establish a social worker's welfare state, in which each individual would be looked after from the cradle to the grave. The looking after would be done by a vast horde of bureaucrats who could control the lives of the people.

As for the blessings of liberty, we are witnessing now the excesses to which those who are not ready for liberty can go. Cuba and Congo are only the worst examples. Liberty without responsibility, duty, respect, self-restraint, can readily become anarchy.

A much better guide for an American is the Preamble to the Declaration of Independence which includes two basic propositions:

1. That every people is entitled to a government of its own choice;
2. That man is endowed with unalienable rights which are his by the grace of nature's God and nature's law.

The Declaration of Independence is written in philosophic terms. Its appeal is universal. It is not limited to any one country or any one people. It speaks in humanistic language but associates itself with the Natural Law which is God's revelation of a lawful and orderly life to man.

If the United States has a purpose, this then is its purpose, to establish that by accepting the Natural Law man can live in liberty in an orderly and lawful society; that nations need not be governed by tyrants or dictators or kings or even by democratic methods, but that each people that sets itself up as an independent state has the right to devise and select its own form of government and that no other nation has a right in a decent world to interfere with that choice.

Most of those who have written on the national purpose have avoided discussing the subject altogether. Between the War of 1812 and the Dred Scott Decision, this country was moving in the direction of nationalism. But the War Between the States established that the original concept of Federalism still prevailed in many minds. This idea is currently called "states' rights," and is being rejuvenated in the South over the Negro question.

The balance between the states and the Federal Government has become upset. The result is that as the Federal Government grows stronger, the local governments grow weaker. This is even more true of municipalities which suffer from the extension of power and authority by both the Federal and state governments.

Henry Luce's concept of an American purpose, which started these discussions, is like his former idea of an American era. It is idealistic and beautiful but in reality there is no such thing.

Veterans Guide

Q—I am a Korean veteran, holding a term life insurance policy with the letters "RS" behind the policy number. I understand I can exchange this policy for new type term insurance at lower cost. How do I go about it?

A—You may exchange your present term policy for one costing about a third as much, yet with the same protection. The new term insurance must be converted to permanent plan insurance before age 50, however, if you wish protection. Write the VA office where you pay your premiums, telling them you wish to make the exchange. Be sure to give your present policy number.

Q Who receives the monthly VA allowances under the War Orphans Education program—the student or his parent?

A If the student is under 21, his living parent or guardian will receive the allowances. If he is 21 or over, the allowances will be paid directly to him.

Q I'm about to start on the job training under the Korean GI Bill. How many hours a week are considered to be full-time training?

A Full-time training is considered to be the standard workweek of the firm where you are taking your training. However, it generally may not be less than 36 hours a week.

Off The Record

By Robert Clark, City Editor

The rain might have dampened the terrain at the 39th annual West End Fair but the spirit of the association which sponsors the annual event was high.

Maybe this was the reason the folks out at the end of the county were able to get in some fair-like weather Wednesday night and secure some spenders which helped to build up what would have been a light treasury for the day.

This year West End can be well proud of their masterpiece. The renovated midway, the new white paint on the buildings, and macadamized runways helped immeasurably to make the fair "bigger and better" than ever.

While the elements kept the crowd down at the judging of exhibits, nevertheless it was this enthusiastic small turnout that seemed to open up the dark skies which had planned to ruin the entire day for the association and folks who come yearly to enjoy "a day at the fair."

The boys running the event could have easily said this was it Wednesday and let it go at that for another year.

But Leroy Hinton, secretary, and Maurice Kresge, president, and their associates didn't see it that way.

"Folks who spent time and hard cold cash to help us certainly deserved a better fate," was the cry of the association aides. Thus, another day was added to the refreshment stand owners, ride proprietors and equipment exhibitors could at least get the benefit of gaining on the nearly 10-hour rainout.

Kresge felt that percentage-wise the fair has been on the lucky side all these years. After all, he pointed out, "It was only the third time in 39 years that Jupiter Pluvius pulled his rank on the association."

Using the above theme—in taking things in stride—it is no wonder the West End Fair is one of the most successful events yearly not only in the county, but in the state and even the nation.

The Pennsylvania Story

Cites Record

(Ed Note: Pennsylvania's two candidates for the post of Judge of the State Superior Court, Democrat Gerald F. Flood and Republican Blair F. Gunther, have been asked by Mason (Denton) to serve as "guest columnists," expressing their thoughts on the subject: "The State Superior Court—its importance in Pennsylvania, and why I am seeking the judicial post.")

By Blair F. Gunther, Republican Candidate, State Superior Court

Harrisburg — I base my bid for re-election to the State Superior Court on my record as a jurist in the courts of Pennsylvania.

My initial 10-year term on this appellate court has been filled with challenging legal questions which I helped to answer in the interest of fairness and justice for the litigants.

It is of more than passing interest that the Superior Court has become known in its 63 year history as the "People's Court."

This Court does not try cases—it deals only in appeals. It has become closely identified with the people because of its jurisdiction which takes it close to citizens and their legal problems.

Examples of this closeness can be found in the fields of public utility rates, workmen's compensation and unemployment compensation. Appeals also are heard by the seven judges on support, custody and juvenile delinquency cases.

This Court convenes four times each year in Philadelphia, twice in Pittsburgh and once each in Harrisburg and Scranton. The time between meetings is devoted to researching the law and writing unbiased opinions which deal fairly with those involved. I've written approximately 500 opinions on these subjects.

In my campaign for re-election I will be able to look back on 10 years' experience on the Superior Court and cases appealed from trial courts in addition to numerous cases involving appeals from State Public Administrative agencies.

In addition, I gained invaluable experience in the County Court of Allegheny where I served prior to moving up to this appellate court in 1950.

As for my background, I was born in Cambria County 57 years ago. In 1927, I was graduated from Duquesne Law School and after 15 years' public and private practice I was appointed to the County Court of Allegheny. In 1943, I won a 10-year term on that court.

In 1950, I was appointed to the Superior Court and in the fall of that year was elected to my first term. It is with certain pride that I recall I led the state-wide ticket that year by something like 80,000 votes.

I am what is known as a "sitting judge" and I am confident voters looking at my record of 17 years in the courts of Pennsylvania will agree that I merit re-election to the Superior Court.

It is a fact, as most voters know, that the sitting judge principle is generally recognized throughout the country as a good one. It means that a judge who has done a good job should not be replaced for political reasons.

Added to this is my 20-year fight against the ugliness of Communism. I shall never stop.

I am a member of Pennsylvania's Advisory Committee of the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights.

This year, members of the Philadelphia Bar endorsed me for re-election by a vote of 1438 to 482.

I have served Pennsylvania well, as the record shows. I have acted with honesty and integrity. I have a good record of affirmances throughout my tenure.

In short, I will not have to "learn" the job to begin a second term.

The Allen-Scott Report

Powers' 27 Flights

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — U-2 Pilot Francis Powers made 27 successful intelligence gathering flights over Russia before he was captured last May.

In these high-altitude reconnaissance missions, Powers obtained more intelligence data on Soviet missiles and their launching locations than that uncovered by the combined spying activities of all the other government intelligence agencies during the past two years.

That's the glowing estimate of Powers' U-2 spy plane missions disclosed by Central Intelligence Director Allen Dulles in a closely guarded conference he held with Congressional leaders before departing for overseas.

Stoutly defending Powers and his conduct since he was captured and jailed, Dulles contended that the U-2 Pilot had shown great courage and ability in making the 27 flights over "great areas in the Soviet Union where the Kremlin is building up in secret its formidable military weapons for surprise attack."

Dulles told the legislative leaders that these formidable weapons included "sixty-six massive rocket and missile anti-aircraft complexes that the U.S. never knew existed until photographed by Powers in his high-flying jet."

These photographs show missile centers constructed similar to a Star-of-David with one or more ICBM launchers and atomic storage area in the middle.

The "points" of the defense star, reaching out a hundred miles from the center, contain new Soviet anti-aircraft missiles that ring the Soviet ICBMs.

Of the 66 missile centers photographed by Powers, Dulles said, half of the bases were completed with missiles on their launchers. The other missile centers were still under construction but advanced far enough so that they could be completed before the end of 1960.

"Every time Powers located a new one of these missile centers," Dulles told the legislators, "he furnished us with information vital to the security of this country. He may have made some errors in judgment since his capture but this nation should always be grateful to him for the information he uncovered on Soviet missile capabilities."

A majority of the legislators that heard Dulles agreed.

No exchange — Russia has rejected a proposal that Rudolph Abel, the Soviet spy serving a ten year sentence for espionage in the U.S., be traded for U-2 spy plane pilot Powers.

The turn down by the Soviets came last week after the State Department refused to carry on the Abel-Powers exchange negotiations with Communist East Germany.

According to a State Department report to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the Russians suggested that the negotiations be opened secretly in Switzerland this month after the State Department informally had made the exchange proposal.

But after agreeing to talks in the neutral city, the Russians notified the U.S. through Swiss diplomatic channels that Communist East Germany was being designated as the Kremlin's agent.

U.S. diplomats in Switzerland then cancelled the talks on instructions from Secretary of State Herter. The Secretary charged that the Russians were using Powers as a lure to entice the U.S. into negotiations that would constitute de facto U.S. recognition of East Germany and he wanted none of that.

Notified of Herter's position, Russia withdrew its offer to negotiate the exchange.

Inside Russia — Russia is reported ready to test a new globe-rocket in the Pacific that is designed to evade U.S. radar warning stations. Air Force Intelligence describe the new missile as a "Bottom of the world rocket. The rocket would streak across the Southern Hemisphere instead of the Arctic, completely by-passing the U.S. radar screen. Its range is estimated at 15,000 miles.

Premier Georgi Malenkov has been transferred from his job running a power station in Ust'-Kamenogorsk in remote Kazakhstan. The CIA believes that he is back in Moscow but under house arrest.

One of the major sore points between Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Chinese Communist leader Mao is the latter's effort to set up anti-Khrushchev cells in local Communist parties in Africa and South America.

NYC's Police Head Tough, Honest Cop

By Don Allen
STEPHEN Patrick Kennedy, New York City's police commissioner, is a tough, honest cop who looks like almost anyone else.

Pass him on the street and you'd hardly notice him. If you did, you might think he was a school teacher, a small business proprietor or an attorney.

As a matter of fact, he is also the latter, having received his bachelor of laws degree from New York University in 1950. He was admitted to the New York bar two years later.

He joined the New York Police Dept. in 1929 as a patrolman and served as such for eight years before beginning the climb through the ranks which resulted in his appointment as commissioner in 1955.

Kennedy will be 54 years old in October. He is a man of average height and weight. His brown hair is graying at the temples and receding from his forehead.

During a visit to Unity House, the International Ladies Garment Workers Union resort near Bushkill Wednesday, he was wearing a gray sport coat and brown slacks. He uses horn rimmed glasses for reading.

He feels strongly that the man on the beat—or post, as Kennedy likes to call it—is the most important man in the department. But he is not blind to the fact that not all policemen are without sin.

Support When He's Right
"Support him when he's right; criticize him and condemn him when he is wrong," Kennedy told the group to which he lectured at Unity House.

He feels that passage of a law which cannot be enforced, such as the late, unlamented prohibition legislation, weakens the entire structure of the law.

He traces the organized crime which today plagues the nation to the prohibition legislation, or the Volstead Act, to use its technical name.

Kennedy will not tolerate a dishonest policeman as many who have been caught have found out to their sorrow. But he makes no bones about the fact that he considers the public equally at fault in such cases.

"You are, in great part, responsible for much of the corruption you find in the police department or any other department," he bluntly told his audience.

"You have the responsibility to see that government employees get a living wage," he continued, so that persons who want special privileges, to cut corners and who are willing to pay for it will not put temptation in the path of underpaid public servants.

"This is a tough league. It is no place for weaklings," he said of the current probe of policemen holding outside jobs, a practice he disapproves.

He points out that a policeman holding two jobs and suffering fatigue will not respond in an emergency, with the split second timing which frequently is needed to save his own life or that of another person.

Kennedy readily admits that he eats too much, smokes too much and often goes for as long as 48 hours in a row without sleep.

Despite this and the fact that his job is a 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week post, he looks healthy as a horse.

Once Longshoreman
A native New Yorker, he was born in Brooklyn Oct. 27, 1906, and worked as a longshoreman, seaman, checker, dock boss, steamship freight broker, secretary and salesman before joining the police force.

He entered St. John's University as a student in 1943 at the age of 37 and was 44 when he received his law degree from NYU. He is also a graduate of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's National Academy, a top-ranking training school for police officers.

He lives with his wife at 202-209 36th Ave., Bayside, Queens, when he isn't in his office at police headquarters on New York's Centre St.

He's one of those rare individuals who can hold an intelligent conversation on almost any subject, as can his wife, the former Hortense Goldberger.

A policeman, yes — first, last and always. But also an interesting personality.

Says U-2 Pilot Is 'Immature'

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers is a "picture of the immature, uninformed, average American today," a prominent newspaper publisher said yesterday.

"Much of contemporary America is revealed by Powers," said Ralph McGill of the Atlanta Constitution. "Immature, vague, uninformed, unable to rationalize self with events; wanting desperately to have all the comforts of life with none of the responsibility."

"Mass public opinion is not interested in problems involving great decisions about international policy, because it hasn't read about them, does not have the background or education nor the mental stimulation or care about being informed."

Urges Labor Aid To U.S.

HARRISBURG (AP)—Labor should back government action on behalf of full employment, living wages, equality of job opportunity and job security, Secretary William L. Batt Jr. of the Labor and Industry Department said Wednesday.

In his annual Labor Day message, Batt said "this is a good day for self-examination."

Outlining goals for which labor should strive, Batt added: "Progressive trade unions and progressive government are two of the best tools to meet these unsolved social and economic problems of our society. How effective they are depends upon each one of us—whether we take an active part in our unions—whether we register and vote for progressive candidates on Election Day."

Dear Abby

Why All The Rush?

Dear Abby: About a year ago I heard that the wife of my former minister was very ill and fading fast. I've lost all contact with my friends in that city (I moved away) and want to know how I can find out if his wife is dead yet.

You see, I am his age and have been widowed for several years. I have always thought this minister was the most wonderful man I had ever known and I can't get him out of my mind.

Can you tell me (1) How I can find out if his wife is dead yet? (2) How I can let him know I am interested in him without appearing too forward?

INTERESTED
Dear Interested: For information about your former minister, I suggest you inquire of a mutual friend. There is no way a lady can let a man know she is "interested in him" without appearing forward, particularly when she is so "interested" she can hardly wait to bury his wife.

Dear Abby: We are four sisters. All married. When it comes Mother's Day, Father's Day or Christmas, we all pitch in and buy something real nice for the four of us.

One of the sisters has not been putting in her share for the last two occasions. She says, "Put my name on the card and I'll pay you later." She is not poor, and manages to have money for everything else. Should we skip her next time and put down our names and let our parents know how cheap she is?

SISTER IN CHARGE OF MONEY
Dear Sister: Don the slow paying sister and be done with it. Why hurt your parents' feelings?

Dear Abby: Has anyone ever been secretly married by a Justice of the Peace and then had a church wedding without announcing they have been married already? That is my case. I would like to be married in a church by my own clergyman but I have been married secretly for seven months. Would I have to tell anyone this if I preferred to keep it a secret forever?

SECRET BRIDE
Dear Secret Bride: I imagine many people have managed to keep a secret of this kind. It's your privilege.

Dear Abby: Regarding patients getting annoyed because they are made to wait in the doctor's office. A number of years ago I had an appointment for a check-up for my two young children. I waited and waited and waited, and the longer I waited the angrier I became. I later learned that three doctors had been working on a baby, trying to close an open safety pin without tearing the child's insides. Needless to say, if I am made to wait in a doctor's office now, I never say a word. I read a magazine.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers all letters.

Way Cleared On Nipping Code

HARRISBURG (AP)—Dauphin County Court cleared the way Wednesday for the state to appeal a decision upsetting the new movie censorship code.

Show us the way to the stars...

Man-made moons have shaped the destiny of our children. If they are going to find their way to the stars, they will need first-rate education. Teacher and parent alike must carefully guide children to the highest possible standards of schooling. This is America's strongest defense.

The very future of our nation is linked with the quality of education being provided our children. To answer this challenge, we must raise our sights and re-examine our standards. In addition to standards of educational excellence, are standards of student goals for achievement, as well as an over-all increased respect for intellectual attainment.

Some of our schools are excellent right now. To raise the others to their level is our immediate pressing task—a task in which every citizen can help.

In the box are questions we should ask ourselves about our schools. You'll think of many more. The important thing is for all of us to start thinking and acting on school problems immediately, to face the fact that achieving desired goals will cost money. Let's remember that every cent we spend is for the future of our children, and our nation. And the way we can achieve first-rate schools is for every family in America to give education a primary claim on the family income.

For helpful information about what we can do in our community, write to "Better Schools," 9 East 40th Street, New York 16, New York.

Let's ask ourselves these questions:

AMERICA'S LEADERSHIP DEPENDS ON FIRST-RATE SCHOOLS

New Teachers Named By Bangor

BANGOR—Eleven new teachers are among the ninety on the faculty who await the opening of classes in the Bangor Area Joint School System, Supt. D. B. Keat reports.

The two new instructors in the high school include Alan Miller, of Wilson Borough, and Mrs. Madge Jackson, of Bangor. Miller will teach English and serve as the new reading instructor with the extension of this program from seventh to ninth grades. Last term only seventh and eighth grades were included.

He also will be the new director of the senior band, relieving Kenneth Fritz, who will continue as instrumental instructor and director of all other bands. Last year Mrs. Virginia Wynne served as reading instructor on a part-time basis. This term she is employed as a full-time business teacher.

Ninth Grade
Mrs. Jackson has been engaged as a ninth grade math teacher. She replaces Dr. Anson Hamm, granted sabbatical leave.

Jack Finelli, hired in mid-term last year, will return to the high school as instructor of English and history. He also is an assistant football coach.

Two teachers are to be elected tonight at the meeting of the Joint School Committee. One will teach sixth grade in the Columbus School; the other third grade in Washington Township.

Mrs. Marion Williams will teach fourth grade in the Roosevelt School. She succeeds Miss Adalayne Duvall, now employed in the suburban Philadelphia area.

Mrs. Janet H. Arndt will be the new third grade teacher and Miss Mary Anne Catino the new fourth grade teacher in the Columbus School. Mrs. Sadie Behr will be the new teacher in the kindergarten section in the Columbus School.

Mrs. Nellie Stocker will teach either second or third grade in Washington Township, coming here from East Bangor. Mrs.

Marion Rascally succeeds Mrs. Edithmae Smith, resigned, as a sixth grade teacher in the Columbus School.

Mrs. Kathryn DeLoach, on sick leave, will return to the Columbus School, replacing Mrs. Mamie Trigiani, a substitute.

Mrs. Ruth LaBar will teach second grade at the Columbus School on a substitute basis until mid-year when a new teacher will be elected. This fills a vacancy created by the retirement of Miss Josephine Farace.

Transferred
Paul Peters has been transferred from Washington Township to the Columbus School's fifth grade and Mrs. Eleanor Campanaro has been shifted from the Columbus School to Washington Township's fifth grade.

Miss Marlene Andrews, of Kunkletown, in her first assignment, will be the elementary art supervisor. She graduated from Kutztown State College last spring.

Altogether there are 46 elementary teachers and 44 junior-senior high school instructors.

The system's total student enrollment of 2,582 is the largest on record, exceeding by six last year's registration. There are 1,391 entering the elementary grades, including a record 152 in the three kindergarten classes, all to convene at the Columbus School. The secondary enrollment is 928.

Sees Set Up Of Board Sound

HARRISBURG (AP)—Chairman Joseph J. Lawler said yesterday he thought a plan for establishing a planning board inside the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission was a sound one.

Lawler said he wanted to study the proposal before the next meeting when it will be voted on by commissioners. The idea was advanced by Commissioner Roy E. Furman at a meeting Tuesday.

Furman said his statement outlining the proposal wasn't meant as a criticism of any commission policies in the past. He became a commissioner about a year ago.

"I don't propose hiring a lot of people to staff the board," said the former lieutenant governor. "I think it can be run by persons who already are on the turnpike staff." He said the board "could foresee problems before they became emergencies and prepare plans in advance for eliminating them if and when critical situations crop up."

Tax-Exempt Bonds

By William A. Doyle

Q. I am interested in buying some tax-exempt bonds. The brokers and bankers I have spoken to call all such bonds "municipal" bonds. Why?

A. Because they are using financial terms — talking in the somewhat confusing language of Wall Street. The term "municipal bond" has come to mean any bond issued by a state, a state agency, a state authority or a political subdivision of a state — a county, city, town, borough, school district, etc. "Tax-exempt" bond is a better description. That's because holders of such bonds do not have to pay Federal income tax on the interest they collect.

A much more accurate term for such debt obligations is "tax-free public bonds." But, you'll admit, that's a mouthful. So, most people will undoubtedly go on calling them simply "municipal bonds."

Q. I realize that there are many different types of municipal bonds. However, is there any way to break them down into certain classifications?

A. It's not easy. But there is a way. The classifications follow:

TAX-SECURED BONDS are secured by and payable from the proceeds of taxes on property.

NEW HOUSING AUTHORITY BONDS are issued by local housing authorities. They are secured by and are payable from a "first pledge" of annual contributions from the Federal Public Housing Administration to the local public housing authority in an amount which, together with other funds of the local public housing authority, will be sufficient to pay the principal and interest on the bonds.

REVENUE BONDS are secured by and payable from the earnings of publicly owned facilities, such as electric and gas utilities.

DOUBLE - BARRELED BONDS is a phrase coined for bonds backed up by a combination of taxes and revenues.

Q. Are some municipal bonds better than others?

A. Indeed they are. Bonds are a debt obligation. No debt obligation is any better than what it is backed up by. Let's say you buy some school district bonds. The school district that issued the bonds owes you money. It is pledged to pay you a fixed amount of interest on the bonds and to repay you the par value (face amount of the bonds) at maturity (when the bonds come due).

A school district with a good financial standing ordinarily gets a good "rating" when it issues and sells bonds. So, it usually is able to sell bonds at a low rate of interest.

A school district with a poor financial standing naturally gets a lower "rating" and pays higher interest.

The "rating," by the way, is done by such statistical services as Moody's, Standard & Poor's and Fitch. They put a great deal of time and effort into studying the financial strength of every municipal bond issuer.

Q. If I buy some municipal bonds now and sell them before they mature, is there a difference which ones I buy?

A. Yes. Bonds of bigger and better-known issuers are more easily marketable.

HIGHWAY CLASSICS

1920 KISSEL
GOLDBUG

In the period immediately following World War I, the Kissel Goldbug Speedster was a popular favorite of the "Flaming Youth" of the time. Fast, well designed and beautifully finished, the Kissel was made in Hartford, Wisconsin, with a six-cylinder, 60 h.p. engine. Characteristic of the Kissel was the rearward-opening trap-door ventilator in the hood, and the third passenger seat that pulled out of the body like a drawer.

Since 1920 there have been marked improvements in the cars we drive, and the roads and highways on which we travel. Yet, with all of this progress, we cannot boast a comparable record of safe driving. The automobile accident death toll is the shame of our nation.

Most accidents are caused by drivers, not the cars they operate. The most important safety feature of any automobile is the care exercised by the driver. Be sure you always drive as though your life depended on it... because it does!

THE IMAGE OF A BANK LIKE

THE FIRST-STROUDSBURG NATIONAL...

When we grant a fellow a loan with which to buy a new car the jobs of roughly sixty people are affected, in all parts of the country, in related industries, in rubber factories and in textile mills.

How many residents of our community are employed because a loan is given to a man to build a new house??

Have you ever thought of these things... of the far reaching effects of bank credit??

Take the hundreds of loans which First-Stroudsburg National grants each year, and multiply by the 103 years First-Stroudsburg National has served your community... the result is a towering image of influence upon the growth and prosperity of the area and a mighty substantial contribution to the growth and prosperity of the country.

When you think of First-Stroudsburg National... don't just think of it as that building on the corner... the one with the town clock... THINK OF THE IMAGE OF THE BANK.

Miss Margaret Duecker Weds In New York Church

At a nuptial mass in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, New York, on Saturday, Aug. 27, Miss Margaret Duecker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Duecker, Greentown and New York City, became the bride of Werner Mueller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Mueller, Haviland Ave., the Bronx, N. Y.

Rev. Charles Klein officiated at the double-rings ceremony at 10:30 a. m. before an altar banked with flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza featuring an applied neckline and waist, and a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell gracefully from a crown of iridescent pearls. She wore a gold corsage with five diamonds, which her mother had worn at her own wedding. She carried a satin covered missal with lace edging and streamers of lilies-of-the-valley and white orchids. Her gloves were of white lace.

Miss Bernadine Duker was maid of honor, wearing a floor length gown of pale yellow nylon organza fashioned on simple lines with bouffant skirt and featuring a bow at the lower back. She wore a matching picture hat and brief gloves, and carried a bouquet of tinted Nile green roses.

Bridesmaids: The Misses Sheila Carol Jean Weber and Camille Placitelli. They wore floor length gowns of Nile green nylon organza similar to that of the maid of honor, with matching picture hats and brief gloves. They carried cascading bouquets of yellow roses. All attendants wore strings of pearls and ear rings contrasting with their gowns.

Charles Olsen served as best man. Ushers were Peter A. Duecker, brother of the bride; William Stenier Jr., and Armin Feller.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Duecker wore a beige silk sheath dress with matching accessories, brown jewelry and an orchid to match.

Mrs. Mueller's dress was of blue chiffon with which she wore a blue feather hat, white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

A reception and seated dinner for 120 guests was held in the Astorian Manor following the ceremony. Among the guests were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Peter Duecker, who flew in from California; Mrs. Harry Duecker's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Heinz Luig, from Munster, Germany, and her brother and sister-in-law, from Detroit, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kunzman.

The first waltz at the reception was "Margaret," written for the bride by her bridegroom. Music was supplied by the William Jongbloed orchestra.

After the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to California and Hawaii. For traveling, Mrs. Mueller chose an orchid colored two-piece outfit. After a two-week honeymoon, the couple will make their home in Glendale, N. Y.

Mueller is a member of the faculty of the East Meadow Public School. Mrs. Mueller is associated with her father's Travel Agency at 248 East 84th Street.

Prior to the wedding, a bachelor party for the bridegroom was given by Charles Olsen in the Bronx. At the same time, Mrs. Harry Duecker entertained at a dinner in honor of the young women of the wedding party. Each attendant received from the bride a 14-karat charm, depicting a bridesmaid, with the date of the wedding engraved upon it.

acutal I shall ever see. The lights went down and down the ramp came 50 torch-bearers in medieval costume and at the top 20 trumpeters with banners blared a triumph flourish.

Then came 600 people from Gubbio in full medieval costumes: fringed tunics, parti-colored trousers, bearing the banners of the ancient guilds of craftsmen. The crossbowmen themselves were in lavender and black with the ancient bows, capable of piercing the heaviest armor. On a litter borne by black and white domineering bearers was the "tasso," a black disc of wood with a white cylindrical axis to mark the bulleseye.

Behind them came Alice-in-Wonderland cards, cardboard shields of the arms of the families of Gubbio, and behind them drummers, and more trumpeters and the prettiest girls of the town in velvet gowns and wimples and things. It took an hour for the procession to circle the stadium. And that was only half of it—since a procession escorting the bowmen of Sansepolcro brought another 600 medieval costumes around the arena.

Sansepolcro added the twirlers. Huge silk banners in pairs of the most brilliant colors were kept in constant motion through the whole procession—sometimes being thrown high in the air—sometimes close to the ground but never touching, great whirling kaleidoscopes of color.

The match itself came almost as an anticlimax after the pagantry of the procession. The tasso was elevated on a drive-in-movie-screen-sized billboard. And one by one the crossbowmen sighted their arrows with the crossbows steadied on a stake and the bowmen on a seat and let fly. They were so far away the arrows were only shadows.

But when they took the target down it was as full of arrows as a porcupine. They counted the arrows and Gubbio won and trumpets blared and banners went flying and the crossbowmen cheered and pounded each other on the back and the champion was crowned by Gubbio's queen.

It was probably the biggest thing in the Circus Maximus since the days of the emperors. When we finally came out of our dazed medieval dream we noticed that every seat had been taken—the grassy banks were filled with spectators and the street above was lined three deep.

It was a big thing for me too. I don't know about Prime Minister Fanfani but he stayed right there in the official box next to us until the very end which was about 1 a. m.

But there were only about 20 of us there for almost an hour, and looking at ruins can pall. But our boredom and the empty seats both vanished when the pageant began. It was probably the most spectacular spec-

Women's Club Releases Calendar For September

The Woman's Club Clearing House Calendar for September was released today by Mrs. Robert R. Hellmann, chairman. Today marks the beginning of the seventh year of this service which lists special events of interest to the community.

The purpose of this calendar is to keep dates from being too full on the night of benefits, special speakers, annual meetings—any time when community participation is necessary in order to assure success of the organizations effort. The calendar helps avoid the embarrassment of having released publicity on a project for a certain date only to find the competition on the date chosen overwhelming.

Carol J. Willhoite Wed To Navy Lt. Jack Harmon

On Saturday, Aug. 27, at 3:30 o'clock the marriage of Carol Jean Willhoite and Jack Emory Harmon, Lieutenant (j.g.) United States Navy, was solemnized in the First Presbyterian Church of Stroudsburg. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. John A. Bollier, before an altar banked with rhododendron and laurel and decorated with arrangements of white gladioli and blue delphinium.

The pre-wedding music was presented by the Shawnee Choir, directed for the occasion by Richard Lindroth, and by Mrs. Robert Wolbert, organist. The choir sang "The Lord's My Shepherd" based on the Scottish hymn tune Cimmund and the wedding hymn "O Perfect Love" by Joseph Barnby. Mrs. Wolbert played "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring" and "Airs for the G String" by J. S. Bach and traditional wedding music.

The bride, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Earl Willhoite, 1020 King St., Stroudsburg, was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown was of imported white silk fashioned with a scoop neckline edged with appliques of Alencon lace. The Empire waist and princess lines featured applied panels of matching lace. The bouffant skirt, softly pleated at the back, ended in a chapel sweep. Her fingertip veil of French silk illusion fell from a circlet of lily of the valley. A white orchid centered her bouquet of lily of the valley and cotton mums.

Her maid of honor, Miss Barbara Croyle, of Coraopolis, wore a short, full skirted gown of cotton blue silk organza over tulle with a scoop neckline and a waist with applied roses in shades of blue and green. Her headpiece was a Dior bow with circle veil of the same cotton blue. She wore white accessories and carried a nosegay of blue and white carnations and baby's breath.

The bridesmaids, Miss Judith Swartz, Miss Inez Kalnberg and Miss Mary Jane Hintze, all of Stroudsburg, were dressed in white. Their nosegays were of white carnations and baby's breath.

Lt. Harmon had as his best man Lt. (j.g.) Don E. Kennedy,

United States Navy, of Germantown, Md. Ushers were John A. Willhoite, brother of the bride, of Stroudsburg; John W. Garry, of Oxford, Ohio; Edward Thomas of Mountain Lakes, N. J., and Robert Kokat of Bloomington, Ind.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Willhoite chose a silk chiffon sheath of Copenhagen blue with which she wore white accessories and a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a silk chiffon sheath in willow green with white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the church social rooms in which the decoration carried out the blue and white motif. The table floral arrangements were of blue and white carnations and white button mums, and were complemented by runners of English ivy. Cottonseed sprays and dahlias formed the window decorations. Presiding over the punch bowl was Mrs. Roger A. Dunning, and Miss Beatrice Johnson, of Ripley, N. Y., was in charge of the guest book. In keeping with Naval tradition the bride and bridegroom cut the five tier wedding cake with the bridegroom's sword.

The new Mrs. Harmon is a graduate of Stroud Union High School and attended the College of Wooster, Ohio. She will continue her studies at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, where Lt. Harmon is an assistant professor of Naval Science.

Lt. Harmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harmon, of Stroudsburg, is a graduate of Stroudsburg High School and Pennsylvania State University. After a wedding trip to the New England states the couple will be at home at 209 Bishop St., Oxford, Ohio.

Miss Mabel Hopfer of Portage, Cambria County, has hired an attorney to fight a county board ruling that women teachers must

Two other teachers have resigned since the ruling was made. Miss Hoffer says she has a letter from the state education association which states that the school board's action is illegal.

Thomas Finishes Third Behind Russians In Olympic High Jump

Fleet German Wins Century Sprint As Yank Track Prestige Nosedives

By TED SMITH
Associated Press Sports Editor
ROME (AP)—John Thomas lost the high jump to Russia in a stunning upset and America was beaten in its 100-meter sprint specialty Thursday but the winners helped to restore some of the United States Olympic sports prestige with three gold medals.

After Thomas' shocking defeat and the triumph of Germany's fleet Armin Hary in the 100-meter dash, the United States men's 400-meter medley relay team won a gold medal in world record time and Chris Van Salza cracked the Olympic mark while winning the women's 400-meter freestyle swim.

Then the men's 800-meter freestyle relay team also smashed a world swimming mark by more than six seconds with an 8:10.2 clocking. Jeff Farrell, the Wichita, Kan., ace who almost missed the trip because of an appendectomy, swam the anchor leg on both winning relay teams.

Hoopsters Romp
America's powerful basketball team coasted to a 104-42 romp over Yugoslavia for its fourth straight victory and first in the semifinal round. It was strictly to contest with the U.S. leading 12-1 at one stage.

Despite the three gold medals won by the swimmers, the U.S. still trailed with a total of seven to Russia's 12 firsts. Six of the American medals are in swimming.

In the unofficial point standings after 44 finals in six days of competition, Russia had 219½ points, United States 153 and Germany 121.

Thomas, the 19-year-old Cambridge, Mass., youth who was regarded as the surest of bets for a gold medal, missed three times at 7 feet, 1 inch, a height he has cleared many times before.

Wins On Misses
Robert Shavlakadze and Valery Brumel of Russia both made 7-1 and Shavlakadze won the gold medal when both failed to 7-3½ because he had fewer misses on the way up. It was an Olympic record for the remarkable pair, but short of Thomas' world mark of 7-3¾. Thomas managed to get third place and the bronze medal.

Hary proved himself the world's best sprinter by winning the 100-meter final despite an heroic lunging finish by Dave Sime of Durham, N.C. Both were in 10.2 which tied Hary's own Olympic record set Wednesday.

This was a black day all around for the American track team which came to ancient Rome with high hopes of winning 10 to 15 gold medals. Now it has won only one of the first three, Wednesday's shot put.

The high jump battle held a crowd of 75,000 on edge in the vast Olympic stadium long after dusk.

Reds Fourth, Too
For a time it was a four-way fight with Viktor Bolshov of Russia hanging in grimly with the leaders. He, like Thomas, failed at 7-1 and took fourth place, again on a matter of misses.

Hary sped into the lead at the start and never relinquished it.

Mrs. Shull Gets GBWGA Head Post

MRS. C. D. SHULL was elected president of the Glen Brook Women's Golf Association at the group's award luncheon yesterday.

Other new officers are Mrs. Robert Schell, vice president; Mrs. Richard Kruger, secretary; Mrs. Jess Haynes, treasurer.

Mrs. Charles Norelli won the yearly low gross award.

Other yearly winners were: improved handicaps, class A, Mrs. George Shafer and Mrs. J. S. Webster; in class B, Mrs. Nevin Nonnenmiller, Mrs. M. S. Baldwin, Mrs. Jess Haynes, Mrs. J. L. Cohen and Mrs. Robert Christian.

In class C it was Mrs. C. D. Shull and Mrs. M. R. Kiefer taking the yearly honors. For ringer score it was Mrs. C. D. Cramer and Mrs. Robert Schell, and for lowest putts, Mrs. George Shafer, Mrs. C. D. Shull and Mrs. Baldwin, for 18-holes and Mrs. Stewart Swarthby for nine holes.

Yesterday's best ball of partners tournament winners were Mrs. Robert Schell and Mrs. Warren Mikels.

With 10 meters to go, Hary was out in front and the five others were only inches apart. Then Sime unleashed a superhuman effort and, if it did not quite catch Hary, at least it earned the former Duke star an equal time of 10.2 seconds.

Third place went to Peter Radford of Great Britain, fourth to Enrique Figueroa of Cuba and fifth to Frank Budd of Asbury Park, N.J., all in the same time of 10.3. Sixth and last was the pre-need favorite, Ray Norton of Oakland, Calif., in 10.4.

Hary is co-holder of the world record of 10 seconds flat. The man who shares that mark with him, Harry Jerome of Canada, pulled up lame in the semifinals.

(AP Wirephoto by radio from Rome)

Press Wins Hurdles
Irina Press of Russia won the women's 80-meter hurdles in 10.8 seconds and Elvira Ozolina of Russia won the javelin title with a toss of 183 feet, 8 inches, which exceeded the Olympic record of 176-8¾. There were no U.S. girl qualifiers in the hurdles' finals. Karen Oldham of San Diego, Calif., finished 13th in the javelin with a toss of 152-7½.

Disaster struck American hopes on wide fronts.

The three crack American 800-meter men — Tom Murphy of Brooklyn, Jerry Siebert of Willits, Calif., and Ernie Cunliffe of Claremont, Calif., all failed to get by the semifinals.

In rowing on historic Lake Albano the U.S. managed to get into three finals and two semifinals by winning repechage (second chance) heats after losing the first races. The Navy eight-man crew gets its second chance Friday but Cushman won his heat in :50.8 with Howard at his side.

The American women tracksters, too, looked good. Tall Wilma Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., won her second-round heat in the 100-meter dash in :11.5 and Barbara Jones of Nashville, Tenn., qualified by placing second in another heat.

Norton, the big Negro who had reigned almost unchallenged as king of American sprinters, was disconsolate after the 100-meter final. "I just tied up," he said.

Sime, on the other hand, felt he could have won if he had gotten off to a better start. "I did not get off well," he said. "At the tape I decided to make a lunge for it, hoping to win."

Thomas Proud
Thomas went down to defeat like a champion. Head up, his eyes a little misty, he said slowly: "I'm very proud of what I did. I finished third and that's a lot better than a lot of people could do."

When Thomas came to Rome he was marked for more attention than almost any other athlete in the 8,000 competing here.

The American disaster in the 800 was totally unexpected. Murphy was on an outside lane and more than a lot of people could do. I gave everything I had," he said proudly. "Those Russians are good jumpers and although I'm disappointed, I'm not ashamed."

Charlie Dumas, the defending high jump champion who wound up sixth, offered this analysis: "Thomas has had too much pressure on him for too long a time. The Russians did not have any pressure until today. John is only a youngster and he will beat them another day."

Three Qualify
On the bright side for the U.S. all three 400-meter hurdle men qualified for the finals — Glenn Davis, the defending champ from Columbus, Ohio, taking his heat in 51.1 seconds and Cliff Cushman of Grand Forks, N.D., and Dick Howard of Albuquerque, N.M.

Kennedy Raps Feature Sports Inc.

THE NEW YORK CITY police department took a bum rap after the Johansson-Patterson title fight at the Polo Grounds in June and the New York police commissioner Stephen Kennedy discussed the situation freely with Daily Record reporter Don Allen at his brief visit to Unity House Wednesday.

While Kennedy's statements are only one side of the story accounts of writers who covered the fight, show that the mess that took place before, during and after the bout, was entirely the fault of Feature Sports Inc., the promoters and not the police department.

Feature Sports and one of its bosses, Bill Fuzazy, charged that Kennedy denied them adequate police protection at the Polo Grounds.

"What was attempted was a gigantic promotion," says Kennedy. They (Feature Sports) sought to use police not for enforcement of the public laws but in this promotion."

Not Enough Gates Were Used

Kennedy pointed out that only 18 of the 30 gates at the Polo Grounds were open to latecomers and part of the trouble came about when the press gate was closed prematurely.

Feature Sports refused to issue press tickets, except the day before the fight. And the group would not even acknowledge ticket confirmations. Many of the writers had to come from as far away as California and Sweden, without knowing if they could get press accommodations. Writers who could not pick up their tickets the day before the fight, lost their priority and had to battle for seats in the third base press box.

Many photographers were given general admission tickets instead of photographer passes.

The press went to the fight with a dim view of Feature Sports organizational ability and when the press gate was closed, the lid blew off. Had it not been for Kennedy's police, who recognized some of the writers and got them through the "player's entrance" the fight might have gotten the worst possible treatment by the press.

Kennedy said he felt the promoters were "chiseling on help" and that he did not feel it the duty of the police to act as "bouncers or ticket takers."

Los Angeles Lands Bush Group

"There is always a certain amount of crime in a city the size of New York," Kennedy said. "It is not my function to strip the city of police for furtherance of a fight promotion."

Feature Sports has decided not to hold the re-match in New York and Kennedy apparently isn't losing any sleep over the decision.

It appears that Los Angeles will get stuck with Feature Sports, an outfit that despite its tremendous financial backing, is still a "hush" set-up.

A SCRIMMAGE, the first of the season, is likely for Bangor High football candidates late this week, as Head Coach Dahey Pritchard steps up the practice tempo.

More specialization has entered the daily routine following separation of ranks. The Maroon and White mentor, who observes that his proteges "are coming along as well as can be expected," is working with 36 varsity prospects while the balance of talent in uniform is operating in the jayvee fold.

Conditioning continues to be stressed but the schedule then breaks off into detailed drilling for the backs and linemen. The secondary is running through "T" formations—winged, straight and flanker—and the forwards, directed by Aide Dale Baker, are hitting the machine, blocking and tackling.

Dawe is Key Bobby Dawe, signal calling veteran, is the key to backfield performance. Flanking him are Bob Collura and Leo and Bun Reimer. Phil Falcone is in the tailback slot. Earl Vandoren, a running guard, and Roger Bet also are being tried at fullback; Dan Caraclo at half; and Brian LaBar has been understudying Dawe.

In order to strengthen an ankle weakened by a baseball injury, Dawe has been relieved of punting chores for the time being and Leo Reimer is concentrating on the assignment. Dawe's arm still is counted on heavily for passing, however.

The alignment up front finds Barry Warrick and Dick Shoemaker, ends; Dennis Perilli, Bill and Frank Holland and Jackie Williams, tackles; Bob Owens, guard, together with Vandoren and Williams and Tony DeCesare; and Danny Holland and Charley Kneebone, centers, as the principal contenders at present.

The line packs a fair amount of weight but the backfield continues light, perhaps falling below that of last year. Nevertheless there are indications that the team's offense may be more outstanding than its defense.

Bangor is getting in as much practice time as possible. In this connection, the holiday weekend schedule will include a drill on Labor Day.

REV. ADAM A. Bohner, pastor of the Brodheadville-Hamilton charge of the United Church of Christ, has announced that the Harvest Home Festival will be celebrated at St. Matthews Church, Kunkletown, at the 9 a.m. service Sunday, and at Christ-Hamilton Church, Scotia, at the 11 a.m. service the same date.

Mrs. May Goldman, who has been a patient in the Palmerton Hospital, returned home Sunday.

The Sunday School picnic of St. Matthews Union Church held Saturday in the Church Grove, Kunkletown, was well attended. The program began at 2:30 p.m. with invocation by Rev. Bohner. The speaker was Rev. Carl Berger, son of a former member of St. Matthews Church. The latter part of the day was devoted to fun and games by the young people. Music was furnished by the Palmerton Band. The day concluded with a cakewalk in the course of which 154 cakes found new owners.

Moon Living Is Possible

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Human beings probably could eke out a living on the moon and might even create a lunar atmosphere which they could breathe with the aid of a mask stocked with certain chemicals, a California astronomer said yesterday.

The rocks on the moon's surface almost certainly contain all the chemical elements which could be made available for synthesizing food and drink and other essentials, said Prof. Fritz Zwicky of the Mt. Wilson and Palomar observatories. He addressed a meeting of the Mexican National Astronomical Observatory and the Academy of Scientific Investigation.

Principal requirements for setting up housekeeping on the moon, Zwicky said, would be a solar furnace, which focuses the sun's rays to produce great heat, and a crucible to hold batches of rock to be disintegrated by the furnace.
